CMGI will acquire all of the stock of Modus for approximately $157.5 million in CMGI common stock and a net cash payment of approximately $73 million to retire indebtedness. The transaction is expected to close in the third quarter of calendar year 2004.

"This strategic acquisition is extremely strong and well-timed for CMGI as we expand our global position, particularly in China," said George McMillan, President and Chief Executive Officer of CMGI. "Our SalesLink subsidiary and Modus Media can together deliver unrivaled supply chain management capabilities and services to clients. Our combined global footprint covers all major markets and includes a very strong presence in China, the most rapidly growing market in the world. Clients will benefit from our ability to service them everywhere with our complete set of supply chain, order management, fulfillment and reverse logistics capabilities. The integration of the two companies also provides current and future clients with one of the most experienced management benches in supply chain management. In short, the timing of the acquisition is opportune as our clients look to partner with a truly global provider."

By acquiring Modus Media, CMGI will create a supply chain management market leader with nearly $1 billion in annual revenue and 38 locations in 13 countries. The client roster will be widely diversified and include leaders in technology, software, and consumer electronics.

“The acquisition of Modus Media is anticipated to produce far-reaching benefits for CMGI and its shareholders. We committed ourselves to building shareholder value by pursuing a strategic plan to expand our core businesses, including acquiring complementary companies that meet our growth and financial performance criteria. The transaction is expected to be accretive to CMGI’s operating profit and net income excluding restructuring costs in the first year. The synergy potential alone, identified from plant operations, logistics and facilities consolidation, and IT integration is expected to exceed $20 million in annualized savings,” said McMillan. “CMGI has the financial resources to enable the combined business to compete and grow over the long-term in a consolidating industry, invest where customer needs exist, and develop and launch new services that benefit our clients.”

“The combination of our collective management teams, operational and managerial expertise, breadth of service offerings and global presence creates a powerful supply chain management company that has a strong balance sheet and is competitively well-positioned globally,” said Scott Murray, Chief Executive Officer of Modus. “Together, we expect to continue to make strategic investments in new innovative solutions and services that add value to our clients and employees.”

The exchange ratio for the proposed stock for stock merger is variable, based upon an aggregate purchase price of $157.5 million (subject to reduction if net indebtedness exceeds a targeted amount) and the average closing price of CMGI common stock for the 20 day period ending immediately prior to the second trading day preceding the date of closing, but is limited such that for purposes of this calculation the CMGI closing stock price average utilized will not be less than $2.028 or greater than $2.478, and that in no event will the amount of shares issued by CMGI in the proposed merger exceed certain limitations imposed by the Nasdaq.
